Empower young women of courage, confidence, and character, to speak out and be leaders. Today, Girl Scouts of Greater New York (GSGNY) is delivering its message of empowerment and engaging more than 25

GSGNY's mission in a New York City in which every girl feels empowered to lead in her community, the number of new leaders in the GSGNY program has grown by 25%.

The Leadership Institute provides middle and high school-aged girls with 21st-century leadership skills and subject-specific knowledge and experiences that will help girls reshape their views on leadership and about their own potential to transform into powerful agents of change while navigating their way forward in school and their future careers.

Urban Security Program at Girl Scouts was designed to serve the urban needs of New York City's girls and New York City's workforce. With the goal of encouraging girls to gain the skills and knowledge they need to safely navigate our increasingly tech-driven world.

Anti-Racist and Anti-Bias Training: We took girls to leadership and to that end, we are committed to doing the work necessary to become an anti-racist organization. We are working to partner with experts in the areas of race, inclusion, and equity to conduct a series of trainings for both staff and volunteers.

Camp Year Camp: The camp experience is an essential part of Girl Scouting – and as the only Girl Scout council in the nation, we are committed to offering high-quality outdoor education opportunities to New York City girls. We have the award-winning facilities of our 125-acre Camp

Guided by an ambitious strategic plan and its dynamic CEO, Karen Lundgard, Girl Scouts of Greater New York aims to expand to reach more girls while serving as an innovating force within the national Girl Scout movement.

The Girl Scouts of Greater New York Team is currently working in a team-specific, hybrid style partly remote.
